Source I - The Old House on the Hill

Use this reading for questions 1 to 4.

The house on the hill did not shout. It waited, its windows dark, its porch sagging like a tired mouth. Ivy climbed its walls as if trying to keep it warm. When the wind moved through the empty rooms, the floorboards answered with low, careful creaks.

Visitors called the house haunted, but the narrator calls it lonely. The difference matters: a haunted house threatens, while a lonely house waits for company that no longer comes.
